Tires and Tubes Allotted To County Residents In February

ALL WERE IN CLASS "A"

Monthly Quota for Retreaded or Recapped Tires Not Received

During the month of February, the Bucks County Rationing Boards have issued 265 certificates to residents of Bucks County to purchase tires and tubes. Only applicants who could classify under the Eligibility Class A were issued certificates.

Under the Revised Tire Regulations, farmers, employees at defense plants, and certain other classes have been listed under Class B which entitles them to purchase for a passenger car retreaded or recapped tires, or retreading or recapping services. However, the Bucks County Rationing Boards have not received their monthly quota for retreaded or recapped tires, or the retreading or recapping services from the State Rationing Administrator. Until this quota is received the Rationing Boards of this County will not be permitted to issue certificates for those applicants who are eligible under the new classifications of List B.

Vehicles eligible under List B are as follows:

(a) A passenger automobile used principally to provide one or more of the following transportation services:

(1) Licensed jitney, taxi, or similar transportation service to the general public;

(2) Transportation of persons to enable them to render construction or mechanical, structural, or highway repair and maintenance services;

(3) Transportation of executives, engineers, technicians, and workers to and from or within such of the following as are essential to the war effort: Power generation or transmission facilities, transportation or communication facilities, or agricultural, extractive, industrial, military or naval establishments;

"How Green Was My Valley" To Be Shown at Grand Theatre

At long last the dramatization of Richard Llewellyn's best-selling novel, "How Green Was My Valley," is brought to the screen by 20th Century-Fox under the able production genius of Darryl F. Zanuck. Here is the film that has been eagerly awaited and from the accounts of preview audiences it promises to fulfill the expectations of the most discriminating motion picture fan.

The keynote of this production which is due to open Thursday at the Grand Theatre is the fidelity of its portrayal to the novel of the same name. Laid against the colorful background of a Welsh mining village, "How Green Was My Valley" brings to life the dynamic characters who captivated the over five million people who read the outstanding book.

Seen through the eyes of the youngest member of the family—Huw Morgan—"How Green Was My Valley" traces the threads of life of the Morgan family over a period of years—revealing their trials and loves, their joys and sorrows. It's the brave story of a family never conquered, not by armed men or hardship, hunger or hate, nor by the turbulent years that stole the greenness from their Valley.

"Coming Off The Line"

San Diego, Cal., March 17.

IT being clear that, while guns, tanks and ships are essential, primarily this is an air war and will be won in the air, the vital question is—will we have, in time, the big bombers and fighting planes to win in the air? The answer is Yes—unquestionably and emphatically—yes.

THAT is it yes if it depends upon the managers and workers of the great aviation plants now going full blast in widely separated parts of the country. No one will dispute that who has had the opportunity to see these plants in full operation, to understand what they are doing and how—plants, for example, such as the vast Consolidated Aircraft Corporation here in California, directed by that doughty old indus-

WEEDS OUT THE MISFITS

(Note: This is the first of a series of two articles on an air and ground visit to one of the army's key training schools for which special permission was given to the writer by the Chief of Air Corps.—International News Service)

By Howard Waldorf
(I. N. S. Aviation Writer)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Mar. 18.—(INS)—For you good people seeking escape from the "bleacher generals" who pool-pool every United Nations war effort, here's a trip to the Army Air Corps Navigation Training School at Mather Field, Sacramento, Calif., where the final examination is a bombing flight to Tokyo.

One of the three in the nation, and a unit of the huge West Coast Training Center, the school stretches over many acres of the historic field of World War I. Flanking long lines of black-out barracks and laboratories are endless rows of heavily guarded twin-motor flying classrooms in which the students work out navigational problems at 180 miles an hour.

Naturally, I am not permitted to disclose the number of planes in service at Mather's navigation training schools, but the total is considerably more than I saw when I covered the army's mass strength maneuvers here in 1930.

Col. Leland R. Hewitt, commanding officer—he, by the way, had 18 months of combat flying in 1917-18 and has been on the job in military aviation since—explains the purpose of the navigation school:

"We train navigators for the stream of multi-motor war planes pouring off our production lines in ever increasing numbers.

"To be of value to the war effort, these planes must reach their objectives—to be of the greatest value they

Taxpayers' Association
Meets in Croydon

CROYDON, Mar. 18.—The regular meeting of the Taxpayers' Association was held in the schoolhouse on Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by the president, Leo Burke.

The principal speaker of the evening was Howard Robinson, chief air raid warden for Croydon. He was accompanied by two of his assistants, Mr. Robinson spoke about the newly-formed Defense Council for Croydon which has been approved. He also outlined in detail the system to be used in case of air raids and spoke briefly upon the various branches of the Defense Council. The Association is 100% behind the Defense Council and has placed itself at its disposal to do anything and everything which may be required of it. Mr. Robinson called for volunteers for a decontamination squad, rescue workers, fire watchers (tower service for three hours per day), more air raid wardens, more emergency police. Any member of the association, not already signed up, who wishes to volunteer for any of these services please get in touch with the secretary, Mrs. Edwin L. Kirk, Cedar and New York avenues, Croydon.

After the departure of Mr. Robinson and his aides, a short business meeting was held. The question of the dumps of Croydon which has been pending for some time was brought up and it was decided that individual complaints should be placed before the justice of the peace for action. The question of street signs was next discussed but was carried over for further discussion at a later meeting. The women of the association have volunteered to make bags for sand which may be had by calling at the firehouse in the near future.

The next meeting of the Association will be held in the schoolhouse the third Monday evening in April. Notice of the same will be posted later. The board of directors of the Association will hold their monthly meeting on Monday evening, March 23rd at the home of the secretary.

The monthly meeting of the American Red Cross was held at headquarters, 120 Mill street, Monday afternoon. The chairman, Mrs. William Duffamel, offered the Red Cross prayer. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. E. Linton Martin. The production chairman, Mrs. Clarence Moyer, gave the following report for February: number of women sewing in Bristol, 11, working 566½ hours; women knitting in Bristol, 51, working 1844 hours; surgical dressings made by 32 women, working 238 hours. In Edgely, 11 women gave 114 hours. Mrs. Thompson's group of 24 women gave 124 hours; Mrs. Harry Frederick's group of 17 women gave 354 hours; Mrs. Groom's group of 12 gave 122 hours, making a

HOPING AND HELPING

Much has been heard about the forthcoming "spring offensive" of Adolf Hitler's. But now, it seems, the real spring offensive is Marshal Timoshenko's. It is to be hoped fervently that things stay that way.

If Russia really has hurled ninety divisions, totaling between 1,500,000 and 1,750,000 men, into that spring drive, the Germans ought to have their hands more than full in Russia, without risking offensives on such new fronts as the Middle East and Africa. But it would be unwise to become too optimistic.

It is well to remember that for some months there have been frequent comparisons between German reverses in the Russian winter campaign and Napoleon's catastrophic retreat from Moscow. The Russians deserve all the glowing tributes that have been paid them for their magnificent stand against Hitler's Nazis. But here is something to remember: In March, 1813, Napoleon's armies had been shattered, routed and driven from Russian soil. In March, 1942, Hitler's forces still hold almost 90 per cent of the Russian territory gained in the summer and fall of 1941.

Maybe Timoshenko's new drive will mark the beginning of a real German retreat, paralleling that of Napoleon in 1812-13. At least this is a worthy hope. The Russians deserve cheers in their valiant efforts. They rate more than cheers. America must send them all the help it can in the form of war supplies. If possible, the Allies must participate in making trouble for Hitler on a new front.

But it would be unwise to exult too loudly over that "Napoleonic retreat" until the Germans really are on their way back home. Overconfidence wins no wars.

THE SUMMER'S WAR

Let Japan and Germany gloat now for by fall their enthusiasm may have been wilted. Surely Japan knows what happened to Italy, which was the first prominent bulwark of the totalitarians. Gestapo agents now police Italy to keep her disgusted populace from revolting. The sets of feudal Japan also will rise, in time, when defeats have brought home to the Japanese militarists the folly of their plan for conquest.

Japan may next attempt to develop sea operations in the Indian Ocean, to cut Allied supply lines to the Bay of Bengal, the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea. Thus China would seem to be isolated at last, and the supplying of Australia from the west would be hampered.

Ceylon and Vichy-controlled Madagascar may next be the goals of the covetous Nipponese-German penetration of the Middle East by way of Egypt and Turkey might actually join the new nebulous Axis somewhere in India. Yet a Japanese victory in either India or Australia would be a far different assignment from the battering of the Pacific island and the Malay peninsula.

Every week counts now. The real crisis for the Allies is fast developing. Hitler passed his zenith in November when he failed before Moscow. If the wolves can be stood off throughout the warm months of 1942, the tide of victory may turn before winter.

News that the government has frozen the supply of 12-gauge shotguns will not cause downheartedness in the ranks of the rabbits.

COMMUNICATION

Bristol, Pa.,
March 16, 1942.

The Editor,

The Courier,

Dear Sir:

It is with a great deal of appreciation that I express my thanks in behalf of American Red Cross in Bristol for the generous co-operation of our people in the War Fund Drive so recently concluded.

We feel that Mrs. Frank Lehman, chairman of the War Fund Drive, and her assistant, Miss Marion Smith, are to be especially thanked for their management and persunance of their most important work. Our treasurer, Mrs. E. Linton Martin, made a most constant and efficient recorder of funds, while our lieutenants and collectors were untiring in the effort to help us go "over the top!"

To the citizens of Bristol, we desire to express the pleasure we felt with the courtesy with which we were received in their homes.

The theatres were most helpful in the showing of Red Cross pictures. Mr. Walter Pitonka, chairman of special gifts, with his efficient committee, and the Rev. Mr. Galey and Mr. Paul Barrett are to be congratulated upon the thoroughness of their canvass for special gifts and for the industries.

We acknowledge the great helpfulness and advice of Mr. Serrill Dellefson, Editor of the Bristol Courier, with his staff, who were indispensable in the publicity given us during the War Fund Drive.

With grateful appreciation, I am,
MARY A. D. DU HAMEL,
Chairman, Bristol American Red Cross.

Training School Transforms Cadets

must return home safely—which brings the navigator into the picture as a key man.

"It is the navigator's responsibility to guide the plane to the target and back to its base under blacked-out conditions in which he may not receive outside aid, other than reference to stars, and sometimes, not even that."

Sounds like a four-year college course, but this unique institution taking raw cadets from the reception center, with little or no previous knowledge of the subject, accomplishes the miracle of training in 15 weeks.

What's more, its graduates consider an error of one mile in 100 as "just fair" navigating. A bomber could make up that error in a few seconds of flying.

We arrive early in the morning, but already long lines of cadets are marching to class. Other long lines, carrying neat rolls of charts and briefcases heavy with mysterious tables, instruments and pencils sharpened to needle point, are marching to the flying field for air missions.

A visit to any air corps training school these days is immensely encouraging, but the sight of these lads—youths from 18 to 26 years of age—skyrockets the patriotic emotions to a new high. For them the future promises no glamor or glory.

While they will share equal responsibility with the pilot and bombardier in carrying out missions, it is a thousand to one bet the only one the public will hear about is the man at the controls.

Knowing that, these lads are voluntarily tackling this important war job with an enthusiasm and determination that is thrilling to see.

From Lieut. Tom Garrett, ex-New York school teacher, now flight commander of a training echelon, we learn details.

In the 15 weeks, the cadets master four methods of navigation—celestial, radio, dead reckoning and pilotage (visual reference to landmarks). When they graduate they are capable of maintaining one-mile-in-100 accuracy, or better at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

Compare this with the boat navigator who works at a leisurely pace of maybe 35 miles an hour!

The course—337 hours ground instruction in navigation, 56 hours meteorology and 996 hours day and night flight missions, which take them on off-airway hops as far as 2,000 miles from home. The explanation for the many hours of meteorology:

"Tokyo won't supply weather information."

They learn the split-second accuracy on missions in which a number of planes simultaneously converge on an objective, a new war development that screens the full force of an attack from ground observation until it is actually unleashed on the target. Arriving a minute early might tip off the enemy and bring the whole mission to disaster. A minute late will lessen the effect of the attack.

Three serious navigational errors and the cadet is out. Another cause for dismissal is tendency toward air sickness as the navigator must remain 100 per cent efficient in the most violent storm, if he is to save his plane and crew.

They must memorize the shapes and positions of the planets and at least 35 guiding stars so they can locate them instantly under adverse sky conditions. They must master the octant, the sextant, all types of compasses and scores of other instruments, including one they call the "confuser," officially, it is a computer.

They learn to guard their watches with their lives. Each day they "hack" them with the master watch and on each mission synchronize them with all others on board.

Watches are set Greenwich Civil Time, which calls for mental mathematics by the student-navigator when you ask him what time it is locally.

They have ground and air classroom work five days a week, from eight in the morning to as late as 10:30 at night, military drill on Saturdays and rest on Sundays—if they haven't any flights to make up.

Upon graduation the are commissioned second lieutenants, given silver wings with an "O" in the center and assigned to active duty as technical observers. Recent graduates have gone to the ferry command for an extra month of cross-country experience, but when they leave Mather Field they are qualified to navigate a plane there and back under any condition, no matter how long and difficult the flight.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we pray for grace and guidance that we may so walk as to please Thee. Grant us Thy protecting care to shield us from accident and danger. And above all we pray that, thus walking in Thy fear and love, we may know the joy of Thy salvation. And what we ask for ourselves, we pray for all Thy people. And very especially do we commend to Thy Fatherly goodness any who are in sickness or sorrow or trouble, that Thou wilt graciously bless and sustain them and draw them more closely unto Thee. ## ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

We always knew Carole Landis could sing—and now she has a real opportunity to convince all! 20th Century-Fox is justly proud of its swiftly rising young star, and has put her in a gay new film with George Montgomery—another youngster who is going places in filmland. The result is a compact, fast-moving, tuneful hit called "Cadet Girl" which opened last night at the Grand Theatre.

Carole is in the middle of a muddle in "Cadet Girl" which tells the story of a West Pointer (Montgomery) who is ready to come to blows with his tune baron brother (John Shepperd) over the lovely vocalist. Neatly mixed in with the engaging story are five grand new tunes by Robin and Raingear.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Leaves To Attend
Beauty Show in New York

The beauty industry, one of the 20 largest industries in this country, is fully prepared to accept material shortages and has laid careful plans to conserve war essentials and to exert ingenuity for substitutions.

This is the statement of Ida Moffo Pilla, of the Ida's Beauty Salon, Mill street, Bristol.

According to Mrs. Pilla, American women spend well over $400,000,000 annually on beauty, and a major portion of this amount, being taxable, is buying a lot of planes, tanks, and war supplies. Mrs. Pilla will leave today to attend the International Beauty Show in New York City at the Hotel Pennsylvania, where 30,000 will convene to discuss and solve the problems of the industry.

Ida Moffo Pilla states that women all over America are wearing shorter hair, a style which parallels World War I. fashions when Irene Castle set scissors to snipping all over the country. Today, however, the shorter length is prescribed by many leaders. Even England has not attempted to ration beauty items. There it's a matter of first come, first served, and the lines in front of cosmetic shops are longer than those before tobacco stores.

In discussing the effect of war on beauty in England, Mrs. Pilla revealed that the English realize that beauty keeps up morale for both men and women, and as a result some British factories have installed beauty salons. Women employed in factories work much more efficiently if they are allowed to use cosmetics and beauty services.

"Why, in some places over there where there was a shortage of cosmetics, women were actually using pink billiard cue chalk for rouge!" she said. There is no prospect of cosmetic rationing in the United States.

The beauty field is regarded as one of America's fastest growing businesses having expanded in from about a thousand salons in 1914 to over 83,000 in this country today.

SERGEANT PAT OF RADIO PATROL

and CHARLIE SCHMIDT

RALPH CAHALL, OF MANHATTAN TEAM, LED SCORERS IN BASKETBALL LEAGUE DURING SEASON JUST COMPLETED

In the most one-sided race of individual scoring since the organization of the Bristol Basketball League, Ralph Cahall, brilliant forward of the Manhattan Soap A. A. team, led the scorers for the season just completed last week.

According to the averages as released today by President Thomas Juno and official scorer, Leo Sciarra, the Manhattan forward finished the season with 77 points, an average of 13.6 in 13 games. Cahall hit the mesh for 75 field goals, the most in the league and made good in the most fouls, 27. In fact the averages show that Cahall led the league in the most goals, most fouls, best scoring average and best foul average, sinking in his 27 free ones in 35 tries.

To be crowned the league's leading scorer is nothing new for Cahall for in 1939-40 he led the circuit with 238 points in 19 games or an average of 12.5 per game. Last season in a three-cornered fight for the championship, Cahall lost out to "Punkie" Zeffries who also was a member of the Manhattan team. Thus for two straight seasons, a Manhattan player has topped the individual scoring honors.

Cahall with Joe Roe started this season with the Rohm and Haas team and during the first half switched their activities to Manhattan to help lead that team to an undefeated second half and the championship.

The greatest climb in the individual fight was made by Joe Snyder, also a Manhattan player. Snyder started off poorly and during the entire first half was kept out of the first ten running. But Joe found the range of the nets in the second half and by scoring a large number of points in the second half games managed to finish third in the season's scorers. He had 130 points for the season and although the averages do not show it, he did his best work in the playoff games.

Vince Profy, of the runner-up Profy team, finished second in scoring with 152 points for the season or a 11.6

average. Profy was most likely the most improved player in the loop for playing with the Auto Boys last season he finished 64th in the individual scoring list and so bad was his playing that he was benched most of the season, participating in but a few games.

However, in playing with a better club, this season he showed his ability and proved that he could be a scoring threat. It was his work which held up the Profy team in the first half fight and he holds the record for the most points in one game, 23.

Another climb in the averages was noted in the person of Steve Florio. Last season Steve finished 16th with 78 points while the Fifth Ward player was fourth in this year's standing with 124 points to his credit. Fred Barbetta, of the Franklin team, leaped from 26th place last season to the sixth position this year.

"Rabbit" Palumbo, of the Franklin team, proved to be one of the best "set" shots of the league and he finished 9th in the list in comparison with 20th last season.

Although the averages do not show assists, both Joe Roe, Manhattan, and "Reds" Pica, Fifth Ward, would have had higher averages. Roe and Pica both showed slight drops from last season.

Several first season men appeared good. Bob Monti, of Diamond, was outstanding with his name being in the fifth spot. "Bill" Balon, of Franklin, and "Jimmy" Rue, Rohm & Haas, also were high on the list.

This season's averages showed that 11 players scored 100 or more points compared to the eight who finished in this section in fourteen games last season.

Sharing honors with Cahall in foul shooting were: Pica with 14 out of 22; Mulligan, Manhattan, with 12 out of 16; Schriber, Voltz-Texaco, 12 out of 18; Rice, Rohm & Haas, 12 out of 19; Balon, 16 out of 26; and Florio, 20 out of 37.

The averages:

| Player and Team          | G. | P. | F.G. | P.L. | P.T. | Pic. | Avg. |

PETRINO ELIMINATED FROM TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, Mar. 18.—Carl Petrino, Bristol, representing the New Jersey A. A. U., was eliminated in the tournament of champions when he was beaten by Cliff Smith of Charlotte, N. C.

Smith is married and works for the Sears, Roebuck Company in Charlotte. He is a veteran of many amateur tournaments and it was his experience which gained him the nod.

Al Turner, Fallsington youth who fought for the Diamond team in Bristol amateurs, advanced in the tournament by knocking out Charley Bracken, a soldier boy from Fort Benning, Georgia.

Incidentally, Turner was the only Trenton representative to advance in the tournament.

By Jack Vincent
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 14.—The first American wartime draft lottery of World War II drew to a close in Washington today while National Selective Service officials prepared to use the draft machinery to conscript workers for war industries.

Launched with the stirring keynote that "this is everyone's war," the lottery—the third under the present draft act and the first wartime event of its kind since 1918 — was started at six o'clock last night when Secretary of War Stimson drew the first number. It was 3455.

By midnight, 3,000 capsules containing numbers had been drawn from the goldfish bowl that has been used for every lottery in modern day American history. But it was slow work and, with a total of 7,900 numbers to be drawn, the lottery went into the morning hours of today.

The Great Game of Politics

are coming off the moving assembly as the infinitely simpler automobile came before its production stopped. It is a tribute to the aircraft manufacturer, who perhaps, is justly proud that the automobile manufacturer did not lead the way.

IT is not permitted to give production figures, nor to describe, except in general terms, the operation. However, certain things can be said. One is that the big bombers are coming off far faster than anyone believed possible. They are coming off faster, in fact, than the Army and Navy can furnish fully trained flying crews to fly them. They are coming off the line so fast that the totals are tremendously cheering. The pace these plants have struck now is the most heartening thing in all the country. It lifts the spirit. It is a sustaining antidote to bad news. It creates confidence, inspires admiration and respect.

THE most stimulating thing, of course, is that while what they have done and are doing is literally a manufacturing miracle, these plants really have just got going. If unhampered by factors beyond their control; if unchecked by government red tape and incompetence; if not delayed by labor politicians and their allies within the administration, the production of these bombers and fighting planes will increase month by month until what seemed the fantastic program announced by the President last January is not only equalled but surpassed.

IN such a forecast as this, there, of course, is always an "if." In this case the "if" has nothing to do with management or labor. There is no apprehension about anything connected with the plant or the workers. The relations between management and men are cordial and co-operative. There is no apprehension about sabotage or enemy attack, against both of which the precautions seem adequate and ample.

LEO DUROCHER, AGGRESSIVE MANAGER OF THE DODGERS PROVED LAST YEAR THAT HE IS ONE OF THE BEST IN THE BUSINESS

THERE is apprehension lest raw materials run out and the necessary gadgets, which cannot be made in the plants themselves but must come from the outside, prove unobtainable. For the supply of the raw materials and certain gadgets, the aircraft plant must rely upon outside manufacturers and the Government. If crippling shortages do not develop through the ineffectiveness of governmental priorities or the inability of government officials to live up to their own exhortations, then everything is all right. If these do not fail, the bombers will keep coming off the line at a steadily accelerated pace and a smashing victory will be as sure as sunrise.

What's the Answer?

'Why were bicycles called "boneshakers" in the old days?

ANSWER: Bicycles were called "boneshakers" about 1865, because they had heavy wooden wheels with thick iron tires which vibrated on the cobblestones.

Where can you find a list of the bicycle dealers in your vicinity?

ANSWER: When you want to buy a new bicycle or repair your old one, you'll find the dealer nearest to you listed in the Yellow Pages of the Bell Telephone Directory—as well as the Dentists, Veterinarians, Chiropractors, Photographers, Milk Dealers and many other services.

You can save time and many steps these busy days if you look in the Yellow Pages when you want to know "where to buy it" or who will do the job.
